

A05128A Boulton Paul Defiant Mk.I

Although the Boulton Paul Defiant was the least effective of the RAF's interceptor fighters at the beginning of the Battle of Britain, it is noteworthy that it entered service later than both the Spitfire and Hurricane. The Defiant was quickly shifted to nightfighter duties when it became clear that the additional weight of its power-operated turret made it an easy target for Luftwaffe fighters.

Technical specs
Item scale	1:48
Item length - without packaging	22.4 cm
Item height - without packaging	7.19 cm
Item width - without packaging	24.9 cm
Finish	Plastic
Skill level	2
Number of scheme options	2
Flying hours	2
Wingspan	249 mm

